Gyenno Skywalk

Product info:

The GYENNO SKYWALK is a wearable, AI-powered device designed to assist Parkinson's patients with Freezing of Gait (FOG). It detects abnormal freezing, such as trembling or shuffling, and automatically provides visual (laser line) or auditory rhythm cues to help break the freeze, allowing for independent movement.

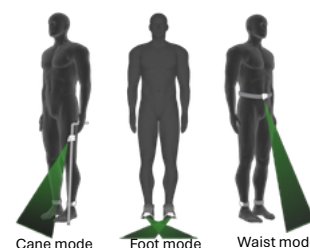

Product Code:

Features:

- Stress-Free Walking Based on motion perception technology, the GYENNO SKYWALK series identifies the freezing of gait (FOG) and automatically emits sensory cues to guide patients back to normal gait. No need for manual operation, which can be stressful for patients who struggle with multitasking.
- Only When Required The SKYWALK will automatically recognise and provide visual or auditory intervention to assist patients in relieving from FOG once it happens. The intervention will disappear automatically when the patient returns to normal walking.
- Dual Cues and Self-Adaption GYENNO SKYWALK delivers a personalised experience with adjustable visual and self-adaptive auditory cues, ensuring a more effective and tailored walking aid for each user.
- Data-Driven Power for people with Parkinson's The GYENNO SKYWALK series collects freezing data from users and displays it as a graph on a mobile app when charging. This provides users with a more visual way to monitor health status and supports healthcare providers in clinical decision making.
- Three Wearable Modes Three convenient wearable option, foot, waist, and cane mode allowing users to choose the most comfortable and effective fit for their needs.
- Supported by relevant studies that show that visual cues and auditory interventions have affirmative clinical evidence in improving FOG. (Freezing of gait: a practical approach to management [Jorik Nonnekes, Anke H Snijders, John G Nutt, Günter Deuschl, Nir Giladi, Bastiaan R Bloem])
